Scope After LL.B

LLB (Bachelor of Legislative Laws) is an undergraduate professional degree that is sought by students to get into a legal profession. LLB is abbreviated as Legum Baccalaureus, which means Bachelor of Laws.

The course covers legal procedures, legal principles, ideals of corporate governance, and laws and regulations of countries. There are ample career options after LLB in India.

LLB graduates can enter three major organs of the Government—Legislature, Executive and Judiciary. Perhaps, LLB opens the door to a wide set of opportunities that cannot be boasted by other career options.

1. Advocate

Advocacy is one of the career options after LLB. Students choosing this path can practice in the courts. Note that the aspirants have to qualify the examination conducted by the All India Bar council first, in order to qualify for their practice.

2. Government Services

Students can opt to join Government Services for a lucrative career after LLB. If they prepare themselves, they would be eligible for Indian Legal Services and the various posts that it offers. This includes Legislative Counsel in the Legislative department and Legal advisors in the Department of Legal Affairs.

This requires the aspirants to qualify for the exam held by the Public Service Commission. Certain legislative counsels are appointed under the legislative department Hindi as well as regional languages.

3. Legal Advisor

For a rewarding career after LLB, you can become a legal advisor or join law firms, Private Companies, Corporate firms, or Banks. You can provide advice on various legal matters. Furthermore, your legal expertise could also be used in NGOs. These provide their clients with legal advisory services. They also help people to make the correct decision in a given situation. Most large corporations and government organizations hire legal advisors.

4. Judiciary

Students are also free to work for the Judicial machinery of the Country as a Judge or Magistrate. This requires them to pass a Judicial examination conducted by the Public Service Commission. This is a very difficult exam to pass.

The lowest post of the Magistrate, Subjudge, or Munsif is filled up by the latest recruitments through Public Service Commission or by the supervision of the High Court. The Magistrate judges the Criminal cases and the Sub Judge decides the Civil Cases. Through promotion, these judges could become district judges and also attain higher posts.

5. Teaching
